The Old Castle

Is still a well-used public house - it was first licensed in 1740.

Originally two cottages turned into one, it was used by Cromwell's troops as stables and barracks.

On 11th November 1820 four acres of meadowland were for auction, which was recorded to have taken place at the Old Castle.

In 1890 it was used as the headquarters of Bridgnorth bicycle club - well attended with the finest track in the West Midlands.

Seen regularly is a friendly ghost who walks across the room and banishes through the wall.
